If your life is at risk, phone 111.

For the latest updates, visit www.civildefence.govt.nz and follow your local Civil Defence Emergency Management Group online and on social media.

Evacuation and accommodation

Evacuation

If you need to evacuate, please evacuate to friends or whānau/family if you can.

If you cannot stay with whānau/family, you can evacuate to a Civil Defence Centre. Check your Civil Defence Emergency Management Group's website for a list of open Civil Defence Centres.

Take any essential items you might need. Including medication, warm clothing and items for babies.

If you have a disability assist dog, take your dog with you.

If you cannot reach a Civil Defence Centre, contact your Civil Defence Emergency Management Group to talk about your options.

Financial help

If you're struggling to meet your essential costs, Work and Income might be able to help you. Even if you're working.

Everyone's situation is different. Work and Income may be able to help you pay for things like:

- bedding,
- food,
- rent,
- power bills,
- repairs, or
- replacing appliances.

What you can get and if you need to pay it back depends on your situation.

Visit www.workandincome.govt.nz or call 0800 559 009 for more information.

Support from banks

If you are experiencing financial difficulty because of an emergency, speak to your bank as soon as you can.

Banks have hardship teams who can talk to you about your options.

Banks can help in many ways depending on your situation. This includes:

- Changing to interest-only repayments for a short time, and
- Waiving break costs for term deposits.

Every situation is different. The sooner you talk to your bank, the better they can help.

Health and wellbeing

Available healthcare

Healthcare is still available when you need it.

If you are seriously unwell and need emergency care, go to your nearest emergency department or call 111.

Not an emergency? You can call Healthline on 0800 611 116. Healthline is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week for free health advice from health professionals. This advice includes where and when to go for assessment and treatment if that's what you need.

Enrolled at a GP or have a regular healthcare provider? Call your GP or healthcare provider to make an appointment. An urgent appointment may be available if you explain what's wrong.

If you are not enrolled or your regular provider isn't available soon enough, you can go to your local urgent care centre. You do not need an appointment, but you might have to wait.

Find an urgent care centre at www.healthpoint.co.nz/gps-accident-urgent-medical-care/.

Prescription medication

If you're out of your prescription medication or you can't access it, your best option is usually to see a doctor to get a new prescription.

Page 4

If you cannot see a doctor, pharmacies may be able to help. Pharmacists may give you a three-day emergency supply. This can be expensive as there is no funding from the Government for this.

Find a pharmacy at www.healthpoint.co.nz/pharmacy/.

Powered medical equipment

If you need power for medical equipment, medications, or life support and you don't have a back-up generator, contact your power company and explain your situation. If this does not work, contact the supplier of the equipment. If this does not work, call 111.

Wellbeing

Anxiety is very common during an emergency event. This is a normal response to a stressful situation. Talking to people and helping others can be very useful.

For help with anxiety, distress or mental wellbeing, call or text Need to Talk? on 1737. You can speak to a trained counsellor for free, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

For free face-to-face mental wellbeing support, visit www.wellbeingsupport.health.nz

It's important to try and get enough sleep during challenging times. Find sleep tips at www.healthify.nz/sleep-tips/.

If kids are affected by the emergency, talk to them about what's happening. Find tips for helping kids cope with a natural disaster at www.kidshealth.org.nz/coping-natural-disaster.

Powered medical equipment

If you need power for medical equipment, medications, or life support and you don't have a back-up generator, contact your power company in the first instance and explain your situation. If this does not work, contact the supplier of the equipment. If this does not work, call 111.

Report the damage to your insurance company as soon as possible. Your insurance company will tell you what you need to do next.

If you need to do urgent work to make your home clean and safe, make a record of the work you do. Take before and after photos. Keep copies of the bills you pay.

If you have contents insurance but not home insurance, talk to your insurer about what is covered. Take lots of photos and keep a record of anything you throw out.

Making an insurance claim

Contact your insurer to make an NHCover claim for damage from natural hazards.

Natural Hazards Commission Toka Tū Ake has partnered with insurers to make a single point of contact for homeowners.

Your insurer will assess, manage and settle the entire claim. Including the NHCover part.

NHCover

NHCover is natural disaster insurance. You have NHCover already if you have a private residential insurance policy for your house or land that includes fire insurance. Some damaged land may not have NHCover.

NHCover insures you against loss or damage from:

- earthquakes,
- natural landslides,
- volcanic eruptions,
- hydrothermal activity,
- tsunami, and
- fire caused by these natural hazards.

It also insures your land for damage from storms or floods.

Read the Householders' Guide to NHCover to learn more at www.naturalhazards.govt.nz/our-publications/guide-to-natural-hazards-cover/.
