

Residual risk

Residual risk is the risk that remains after risk treatment has been applied to reduce the potential consequences.

A

Seawall typically provides protection against a 1:50 year storm event for which it was designed for.

B

Seawall cannot protect against a less frequent but higher magnitude 1:100 year storm event.